Dear Dr. Rudra and Dr. Chaukar,

Many thanks for sharing with me the wonderful news, according to which you have established a translation team for the purpose of translating "Exploring the Bhagavad gita: Philosophy, Structure and Meaning" from English into Hindi. I have read the translators' resume as well as their sample translations and they seem qualified indeed.

I am very happy to hear that the team will be working under BRC, and under Dr. Chaukar's guidance. I understand that the project is scheduled to take about 6-7 months. I also understand that the total cost of the project per month will be Rs. 25,000/- which will include remunerations for the research assistants and fellows, along with the administrative expenses incurred. I suggest that we transfer at present the amount of Rs. 75,000, and then transfer the rest when the project reaches completion.

Please fill in the required details in the attached document. Please ignore the Hebrew parts; I will complete these later in consultation with the University administration and take forward the payment. Again, many thanks for your kind endeavors in this regard. I look forward to work with you and see this translation actualize.

All the very best,
